Newlin joins Fever

The Indiana Fever have added former Stanford center Kristen Newlin to their training camp roster.

The 6-5 Newlin joined the shorthanded team in Seattle prior to its preseason finale Saturday night, the Fever said in a news release.

Among those who did not travel with the team is All-Star forward Tamika Catchings, who is recovering from a torn Achilles tendon.

Newlin was a third-round pick by Houston in the 2007 WNBA Draft. The Comets waived Newlin last year and she played in Turkey over the winter. The Phoenix Mercury signed her for training camp this spring and released her after one preseason game.

Indiana's regular season opener is at home May 17 against the Washington Mystics.
